

Celebration Policy

Anas ibn Malik reported: The Messenger of Allah (SAW), arrived in Madinah during two days in which they were celebrating. The Prophet (SAW) said, “What are these two days?” They said, “We would celebrate these two days in the time of ignorance.” The Prophet (SAW) said, “Verily, Allah has replaced these two days with two better days: Eid al-Adha and Eid al-Fitr.

(Sunan Abi Dawud)

Eid Fitr and Eid Adha

The two Eid days are special times for the IQRA College community. These are significant events in Islam which reminds our school community the importance of gratefulness through fasting in the month of Ramadan and a conscious reflection on the journey of Hajj through various classroom learning activities.

To further enrich the Eid spirit for our students, we celebrate an Eid Fun Day to mark the end of Ramadan once the students come back from their Eid holiday.

The school will be closed for families to celebrate both Eids and parents will be informed duly.

Other Celebrations

Iqra College only celebrates Eid days, thus any other celebration such as birthday s, Mother’s Day and Father’s Day, will not take place in the school, and this is part of the school policy of celebration. Therefore, the school will not be able to accommodate parents' request to give away birthday gift bags and/or have a celebration in class. The school also takes in view on being sensitive to student allergies and financial hardships. Parents’ understanding in this matter is greatly appreciated.
